

Poetry Living Builder Sales Office

Venu Convention Centre

Caribbean Luxury Estate

FLORA DI MENNA DESIGNS has long been recognised in the industry and internationally through the numerous awards and honours garnered. Based in Toronto, Flora is well known for her ability to deliver consistently beautiful and creative work across multiple genres.

The Poetry Living Builder Sales Offices have been conceived to appeal to the young generation who are the target market for their properties. A temporary structure, located in the entry corner of the development site, the presentation area reflects new technologies. Display stands introduce available interior finishes, and the design includes an LG curved video wall, iPad stations, and bar style seating.

Venu Convention Centre was originally built in 1980. The aim of this renovation project, including the new name, was to capture the unique essence of this family run wedding and function suite, to bring it to elite status, and make a lasting impression for those who step through its doors. From the newly modernised exterior, to the iconic ballroom and bridal suites – key to the project was a luxurious design making every client feel special on their big day.

This Caribbean Luxury Estate is based in part on the footprint of the original house which was left to the client by her father. Flora Di Menna Designs looked after the entire project including the exterior building design, landscape design and interior design. It was important that the property could accommodate a very large extended family just as a 5 star resort would, at the same time creating a simple and unique look which was clean and soothing.
